ADDENDUM D

INSURANCE TERMS

These terms are informative and could assist in a better understanding of insurance concepts.

All risks	An 'all risks' policy provides cover for loss or damage resulting from any incident, unless the incident is specifically excluded under the policy. An "all risks" policy normally covers your personal belongings in your possession anywhere in the world, or property that you are likely to take with you away from your home. This may include wearing apparel and personal effects. The personal belongings covered by an 'all risks' policy can be specified or unspecified (general). Note: If you want to claim for loss of or damage to any of these items, you may have to prove the value of your loss. In the case of jewellery items such as diamond rings and watches over a certain value and other special items such as artwork or Persian carpets, you may be required to supply a valuation certificate when you claim.
Average	Average (or 'subject to average') is the calculation that we apply when dealing with a claim in a situation of underinsurance. Average is applied using the following formula: $\frac{\text{Sum Insured}}{\text{Value at Risk}} \times \text{Loss Amount} = \text{Settlement}$ Example: An example of the application of average is: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> o Tom has a house and the house is insured for R200 000 (sum insured); o The cost to completely rebuild the house if completely destroyed is R300 000 (value at risk); o There is a fire and the cost of repairs is R60 000 (the loss); o The amount that will be paid (settlement) is: $\frac{R200\,000}{R300\,000} \times R60\,000 = R40\,000$
Agreed value	This is the amount we agree to insure a specific item for in the event of a valid claim for that item's total loss. This may apply to items such as a rare, classic motor vehicle, artwork or other valuable items as agreed with us. These items will usually be specified separately in your policy and you will pay an extra premium for insuring them. Average does not apply to agreed value items.
Beneficiary	This is a person or entity that you nominate or who will lawfully be entitled to receive a benefit from your insurance policy. This can be yourself, your estate or another person.
Betterment	This describes a situation where you end up better off than you were before the loss or damage occurred following the repairs or replacement of property. Usually insurance policies do not allow for betterment. For example, if repairs or replacement must be done in such a way that the insured item will have a higher value than it had before the loss, we may ask you to pay in the difference as you are now in a 'better' position.
Commercial use	Generally, this is where you use your property (vehicle or other equipment or property) for business purposes.
Computing equipment	Includes any computer, data-processing equipment, microchip, integrated circuit or similar device in a computer or non-computer equipment or any computer software, tools, operating system or any computer hardware or peripherals and the information or data electronically or otherwise stored in or on any of the above.

Consequential loss	This is loss not resulting from physical damage to tangible property but rather arising from such damage, for example: lost production on orders following a fire. Consequential loss is in many instances not covered unless specifically provided for in terms of the policy.
Credit shortfall	This is a type of added insurance cover that covers the difference between the amount paid out by us in the event of a total loss of your property (for example a vehicle), and the amount owed to the bank or finance institution that financed the purchase of the property under the credit agreement. This cover does not form part of comprehensive insurance cover, but it can be an optional extension to an existing policy, or purchased as a separate policy at an extra premium. There may be limits of cover or certain amounts excluded from credit shortfall cover, such as arrears, certain finance charges and policy excesses.
Excess also referred to as 'first amount payable'	This is the first amount payable by you or deducted by us in the event of a valid claim. In other words, the excess is that part of the loss or damage / claim that we do not pay for. It can be a fixed amount or a percentage of the claim, depending on the policy wording. Types of Excesses a) Basic excess This refers to the minimum excess payable in terms of all claims submitted under that policy. This will be the compulsory excess that needs to be paid before we shall pay your claim. b) Additional excess When there is more than one excess applicable to the same claim over and above the basic excess, these are called additional excesses and are usually added together (accumulated) and are added to the basic excess. In some instances you are able to choose additional excesses and these form part of your policy (see voluntary excess below). c) Voluntary excess A voluntary excess is an additional excess agreed to by you in exchange for a reduction in premium. It is added to the basic excess. Example: If you have a basic excess of R100, and a voluntary excess of R250; when you submit a claim for R1 000, you will need to pay R350 and we shall pay the remaining R650. d) Cumulative excess This is used when additional excesses are added together, if applicable to the same claim.
Exceptions also referred to as 'Exclusions'	Exceptions are specific items, losses or events that are not covered in terms of your policy. These will be specified in your policy wording and it is important that you read your policy carefully.
Extensions	These are additional or extra (add-on) covers or benefits that may be included in your policy. Some of these may be at an additional premium.
Held liable	You are held liable (responsible) when someone proves that you caused him / her injury, loss or damage unlawfully, whether deliberately or accidentally (negligently).
Indemnity also referred to as 'Compensation'	This is the benefit you receive that places you, as far as possible, in the same financial position that you were in before the loss occurred. We have an option to repair, re-instate, replace or to pay cash.
Insurable interest	You have an insurable interest in property if you will gain a financial benefit from the protection of that property being insured, or if you could suffer a financial disadvantage should the property insured be lost, damaged, or in the case of personal injury insurance, where an insured person is injured. Generally, an insurable interest is established by ownership, legal possession or direct relationship. We may stipulate specific policy provisions requiring you to prove insurable interest at underwriting or claims stage, for example having to demonstrate ownership of a vehicle.
Insured event	This is a specific event which directly causes the loss or damage for which you are covered in terms of this policy.

Liability see also 'Held Liable'	This is the legal responsibility one person has to another that is enforceable by law.
Material fact also referred to as 'Material information'	A material fact or material information is any information that will influence our decision: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> a) whether or not to insure you; or b) as to the terms and conditions that will be applicable to your policy.
Motor values	a) Retail value (in motor insurance) This is the likely selling price of the vehicle by a motor dealer to a purchaser. This is the possible value that a motor vehicle 'retails' for if you were to buy it from a dealership. The retail price is the closest value to the replacement value or cost of your insured motor vehicle. b) Trade value (in motor insurance) This is the likely price a dealer would pay for your vehicle when it is traded in. c) Market value (relating to motor insurance) The market value is the average between the likely trade and retail values of a vehicle. (trade value + retail value) / 2 = market value Example: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> o A motor dealer can sell a vehicle to a customer for the amount of R300 000 (retail value) o The same vehicle was traded in by its previous owner for R250 000 (trade value) o The market value of the vehicle will therefore be R275 000, as follows: $\frac{R250\ 000 \text{ [trade value]} + R300\ 000 \text{ [retail value]}}{2} = R275\ 000 \text{ [market value]}$ d) Market value (relating to property insurance) The same calculation is not applicable to calculating the market value of other movable property, such as furniture or electronic goods. In property insurance, the market value is the amount a willing buyer will offer to a willing seller to buy the property concerned.
No-claim bonus / claim-free group	This is a discount on your premium based on your past claims history. If you claim, this may affect your premium discount in the future.
Nominated driver / named driver only	The nominated driver is different to the regular driver of the vehicle. This driver is named and recorded in your policy as the only agreed driver of the insured vehicle. There may be more than one nominated driver. In such a policy if any other person is driving the vehicle, there is no cover. This is a very restrictive type of cover and something you should take note of.
Period of insurance	Notwithstanding the fact that you may have a monthly or quarterly policy, this is the 12 (twelve) month period for which you have cover, beginning with the start date (i.e. inception or annual renewal date) as stated in your schedule, and for which premium has been received.
Permanently unfit for use	Property is permanently unfit for use when it has structural damage and would be impossible or unsafe to repair.
Premium	This is the amount of money you are required to pay and as stipulated in your policy schedule, in return for the insurance benefits (cover) as set out in the policy.
Pro rata premium	This is a portion of the full premium that you must pay if you are only covered for a certain period from the time that the cover starts on the policy.
Proximate cause	This is a direct cause of a loss which has not been interrupted by any other event. We shall only be liable to cover you for insured events that directly cause the loss or damage. Example: A shopkeeper insures his shop windows against loss or damage from any cause except fire. A fire breaks out at a neighbouring store and people gather at the scene. The shopkeeper's windows are accidentally broken by the bystanders. The damage to the windows was not caused by the fire and therefore the claim will be paid.
Regular driver	This is the person named in a motor policy as the person who uses the vehicle the most and may also be known as the usual driver .

Replacement cost or value	The replacement cost or value of an item is the cost to replace that specific item or property. In a motor policy, the replacement cost would be either the retail or the market value of the vehicle.
Reject see also 'Repudiate'	If we reject a claim it means that we have refused to pay the claim or any part of the claim in terms of the policy.
Repudiate see also 'Reject'	If we repudiate a claim it means that we have rejected the claim, which could be for various reasons.
Roadworthy	A vehicle that complies with existing road traffic laws of the country, and is in a fit condition to be used on a public road, is considered to be roadworthy. It is a condition under your motor policy that your motor vehicle must be roadworthy. If your vehicle is not roadworthy, it will negatively affect your cover and claims.
Salvage	Salvage is what is left of a damaged item which has been damaged beyond economical repair or is regarded as a write-off. This damaged item becomes our property after the claim has been paid.
Schedule	A schedule is a document that summarises all your specific insurance information and can also be referred to as a 'certificate of insurance'. It forms part of your insurance policy document and sets out the type of insurance you have bought, the premium amount you have to pay, excesses and / or exceptions, start date, period of insurance, renewal date and other details specific to your policy.
Self-insured	To be self-insured is when you set aside your own money to cover or protect yourself against any loss or damage. This is a conscious, deliberate decision that you make to carry or fund your own losses.
Specific conditions	These are additional conditions that must be in place or complied with by you in order to enjoy the benefits of a specific section of the policy.
Start date	The date from which you are covered under your insurance policy. The start date and the date of commencement of cover could be different dates. You should refer to your policy document to confirm when cover is effective. (This may also be referred to as the 'inception date' / 'effective date' / 'commencement date'.)
Subrogation	Before or after any payment of a claim, we shall at our discretion be entitled to assume all of your rights of recovery against any person or entity (other than yourself) and you will provide us with all documents and information and do whatever else is necessary to secure such rights.
Sum insured	The sum insured is the maximum amount that we have agreed to pay for insured property in the event of a valid claim. All sums insured are inclusive of Value Added Tax (VAT).
Terms and conditions	The terms and conditions in a policy set out the general and special arrangements, provisions, requirements, legal rules, specifications, and standards that form an integral part of the agreement or contract between us. Your policy document is a very important document and you must ensure that you read and understand the contents of your policy. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> a) Clauses Clauses are sentences and paragraphs describing the responsibilities of both parties and other terms and conditions that may apply to your policy. b) Conditions Detailed conditions in your policy are requirements that must be in place or complied with by you so that you can enjoy the benefits of the policy. c) Policy term Policy term is a term or clause in a contract. There are different classes of terms in a policy, such as conditions, warranties, exceptions and exclusions, extensions, clauses and provisions. d) Provision A policy provision is a term which may require certain things to be done or not done. If you do not comply with a provision, it may affect your cover, premium or a claim.
Third party	Someone other than yourself who is involved in an insured event / claim.

Total loss cover	Total loss cover is insurance that provides cover for an item or property only when it is stolen, lost or totally destroyed. This type of policy will not cover you when the items that are damaged can be repaired. Total loss is a condition of real or personal property when it is lost, damaged or destroyed to such an extent that it cannot economically or safely be rebuilt or repaired.
Underinsurance	Underinsurance is when property is insured for less than it would cost to replace the property. When a situation of underinsurance occurs, a valid claim will be subject to Average. If you understate the insured value, you may be paying an incorrect amount of premium and therefore may be underinsured. Should you then have a claim, the payment will be calculated in proportion to the actual sum insured and the actual value at risk at the time of loss or damage. Your claim pay-out will be adjusted accordingly.
Uneconomical to repair	This refers to a situation where it is possible to safely repair damaged property, but the cost of doing the repairs is more than the value of the property, less its expected salvage value. We may in such a situation not consider it financially worthwhile to repair the property concerned and therefore the damaged property will be a 'write-off' or 'written off'.
Unattended	If premises are unattended at regular intervals or for an extended period of time, they pose a higher risk of theft and / or damage, and therefore will result in a higher premium being charged and / or excess being applicable in the event of a claim, or the claim may even be rejected. Insofar as vehicles are concerned, 'unattended vehicle' refers to a vehicle without any occupants.
Vacant	When a property is considered vacant, it means that nobody lives in or uses the building, or that someone uses the building without your permission. In insurance this is different to the meaning of the word 'unattended'.
Wear and tear	Means gradual deterioration as a result of normal usage or the passage of time or lack of maintenance. It includes the gradual influence of light and weather conditions.
Write-off	When an item or property is so badly damaged that it cannot be repaired, or it is unsafe or uneconomical to repair it, it is then considered to be a total loss / write-off.
